TUESDAY, MARCH 9. 1742.

No. 2096.

Petersburgh, Feb. 16.

WE are informed that his Royal Highness the Duke of Holstein was receiv'd on the 3d inst. at Mittau, by three Gentlemen who were sent to compliment him on the Part of the Empress, and who deliver'd him a very kind Letter from her Majesty, together with a Present consisting chiefly of fine Furs. He afterwards proceeded to Riga, where he received all the Honours due to a Crown'd Head, and on the 10th set out from thence with an Escort of the Imperial Guards for this Place, where he is every Moment expected.

Extract of a Private Letter from Petersburgh, Feb. 20.

On the 16th, about two in the Afternoon, the Duke of Holstein arriv'd here, and was received by her Imperial Majesty with great Marks of Affection. It is impossible to express the Joy shewn by the Populace upon this Occasion, and the Earnestness they express'd to obtain a Sight of his Highness. His Residence for the present is in the White Castle, where he is visited by the Prime Nobility and Foreign Ministers. The Day before Yesterday there was a Ball in the Evening, which was open'd by the Empress and the Duke. The Marquis de la Chetardie having receiv'd an Express from his Court, waited on her Majesty with new Letters Credential, which give him the Character of Ambassador of France. It is said he has some very important Proposition to make, which if the Court should not relish, he will soon take his Leave; which we rather believe, because it is certain that the Czarina is resolv'd to send a great Body of Troops to the Assistance of the Queen of Hungary.

Munich, Feb. 26. On the 16th of this Month two of our Burgomasters went to Landshut, to make their Submission in the Name of our Magistrates to Count Kevenhuller; and the same Day his Excellency began his March with a considerable Body of Troops for this City, where he intends to establish his Head Quarters. The Garison is to consist of none but Regular Troops. The Forces we had on the Frontiers are entirely routed, and most of them made Prisoners: Above a thousand Wagon-Loads of Provision have been transported into Tyrol, so that we perceive her Hungarian Majesty's Magazines in Italy are like to be well stock'd at our Expence. To compleat our Misfortunes, we have this Moment received the News of the City of Straubingen surrendering to the Austrians. Veldt Marshal Kevenhuller sent this Morning a Trumpet to acquaint the General who commands the Palatine Horse and Dragoons sent to our Assistance, that if any of his Forces presum'd to enter this Electorate, he would immediately lay waste the Duchy of Neubourg. We are quite at a Loss as to the Contribution that we are to pay, but most People are of Opinion we shall not escape under a Million and half of Florins. Inclosed you have a Copy of our Capitulation, concerning which we are told there are many different Reports abroad.

The Capitulation for Munich, as settled by Lieut. Col. Mentzel, and the Deputies of that City.

I. As soon as Veldt Marshal Count Kevenhuller shall have ratified these Articles, the City of Munich shall be delivered to Col. Mentzel; and the Soldiers of the Garison, Officers, and all who belong to the Train, shall be permitted to retire to Ingolstadt with whatever belongs to them: And for their better Accommodation, they shall be furnished Gratis with Carriages and Horses.

Granted. But they shall march out without Arms, and without Ammunition, agreeable to the second Article of my Propositions.

II. It shall be permitted to the two Commodants to draw up an Inventory of the Artillery, Ammunition, and other Military Stores which are in the Arsenals and elsewhere, and the whole shall remain here without Embezzlement.

This must depend on the Consent of the Field Marshal Kevenhuller, who no doubt will grant it.

III. There shall no Soldier, Burgher, or Inhabitant of the adjacent Villages be forced into the Service; and if there be any Deserters in this City, they shall be pardon'd.

Granted.

IV. In case any Officer or Soldier shall be obliged to stay here, either thro' Sickness, or to attend his private Affairs, he shall have a reasonable Time allow'd him, after which he shall be permitted to retire.

Granted.

V. To the End that the Articles of this Capitulation may be religiously observed, Things shall remain here in Statu quo, till Count Kevenhuller shall have confirm'd and ratify'd these Articles; except the Gate of Neuhaus hereafter mention'd.

Granted, as it is but just that some Mark of Distinction should be allow'd to a Capital City.

VI. All the Territory belonging to this City, as well as the City itself, shall have their ancient Privileges and Immunities preserved without the least Encroachment.

There is no Doubt that the Queen of Hungary will grant this Demand.

VII. The Imperial Residence in this City, as well as all the Pleasure-houses in its Neighbourhood, together with all their Moveables, Paintings, Cabinet of Curiosities, Archives, Library, and whatsoever belongs to his Imperial Majesty, together with the Salt Works at Richenhall and Traunstein shall be effectually preserved without the least Injury or Embezzlement, for which Purpose proper Safeguards shall be appointed.

Tho' this depends upon a superior Disposition, yet there is no Doubt it will be granted.

VIII. The same Respect shall be shewn to the Houses of the Imperial Ministers present or absent, to the Town-House, to the Arsenal, and to the Houses of the Nobility and Gentry.

Granted.

IX. There shall not be permitted any Pillage in the Towns, Boroughs, or Country, at any Time, or on any Pretence whatsoever. No Body's Possessions shall be violated, nor shall any Thing brought higher out of the Country be touch'd, but the Owner shall be at Liberty to carry it home again without Trouble or Expence. The Passage of Provisions into this City shall moreover be entirely free.

Granted.

X. The Imperial Tribunals, Civil Officers and Domestick, shall preserve their Places and Appointments.

This depends upon a Permission from above.

XI. Passports shall be granted to such as demand them for their safe Passage into any Part of this Electorate.

Granted.

XII. If a Garison shall be put into this Capital it shall consist only of Regular Troops; and the Field Marshal, no doubt, will think them best quarter'd in the Caserns.

There is no Reason to suppose the Field Marshal will be against this.

XIII. The Arsenal of this City shall be preserved entire, and nothing therein embezzled.

The same as to the last.

XIV. After these Articles are duly sign'd, the Gate of Neuhaus shall be deliver'd to Colonel Mentzel.

The Whole shall be faithfully observed.

Done at this Capital City of Munich, Feb. 13, 1742.

J. D. Von Mentzel, Colonel.

Magnus, Abbot of Benedict-Beyern.

Francis, Baron de Freyberg.

Francis Peter, Baron de Reisenbusch.

Paris, March 9. His Majesty has been pleas'd to name the following Officers to command the first Column of Troops which are shortly to pass the Rhine, in order to go into Bavaria; viz. Lieutenant-Generals, Duke de Harcourt, Count D'Aguesseau, Marquis de Ravignan, the Sieurs Bulkeley, and Cayia; Mareschals de Camp, Prince of Montauban, Marquis de Rennepont, de Refuge, de Argouges, Sieur de Grandville, Chevalier de la Ravoye, Duke de Bouteville, Count de Caraman, Chevalier de Moleges, Marquis de Clermont d'Amboise, Count de Langeron, Count de Fontaine-Martell, Marquis de Ramburet, and Marquis de Villemur. Actions 1975 Liv.

Extract of a private Letter from Brussels, March 12.

If the Queen our Sovereign should be reduc'd to the hard Necessity of submitting herself to the Mercy of the Allies, it must be allow'd at least both by Friends and Enemies, that she has done nothing to deserve or to draw upon her so great a Misfortune, but has defended herself and her Subjects against so many and such powerful Enemies, with a Magnanimity worthy of Success, and which shews her to be the Heiress of the Austrian Virtues, whether she may or may not retain the Austrian Dominions. But after all, there never was so great a Probability of her having a better Fate than at present.

The rapid Progress made by the Allies at the Beginning has not been more injurious to our Sovereign than to themselves; it has expos'd their Ambition and Injustice to all the World, it has put them to an immense Expence in Men and Money, it has rendered their Yoke detestable to those on whom they would impose it, and which is yet worse, it has destroy'd the Credit of their Arms, and forc'd her Hungarian Majesty on the best Measures she could have taken. At present all Europe stands amaz'd at the Perfidy of certain Powers, and rejoices, tho' it may be secretly, at seeing Bavaria in a worse Situation than Austria, and the Spoils of Munich once again transmitted to Vienna. The Bohemians, Silesians and Moravians are just as well pleas'd with their new Masters as were the Inhabitants of the Upper Austria, who destroy'd more of the Enemy's Troops than were kill'd by Count Kevenhuller's Hussars. The Queen our Sovereign's Forces are without Partiality superior to any of the Allies, the Prussians only excepted, which has sufficiently appear'd in every Action that has hitherto happen'd; and whatever the Partisans of the House of Bourbon may think fit to say, all Men of Penetration know, that the French Troops are not only hated but despis'd in Germany, where their Officers have shewn little Conduct, and their Soldiers no Regard to Discipline. If the Allies had been less in a Hurry, the Queen of Hungary must have been undone, the Extent of her Dominions would have ruin'd her, the very Expence of a defensive War might have lost her the Hearts of her Subjects; as it is, she will find Troops enough in Hungary, Austria, and Tyrol, to make a great Struggle for the rest of her Territories, perhaps to recover what seem to be lost at present. In Hungary she will always find Resources, the People are rich and their Nobility loyal. In Austria, she has all the Advantages that can contribute to preserve her own Forces, and to weaken those of an Enemy; and thro' Tyrol, whenever she has a mind to quit Bavaria, she will be able to pour a large Army into Italy.

Our last Letters from Vienna assure us that things abroad have a very promising Appearance; that the Porte has given her Majesty to understand that the Reports spread of assembling Troops in the Neighbourhood of Belgrade, are intended only to quiet the Minds of the People at Constantinople, which were never more disturbed than at present; but that the Grand Signior is determin'd to maintain the Peace made with the late Emperor, and to cultivate a good Correspondence with the Queen. An Express from Poland which arriv'd at Dresden the Beginning of this Month, brought Advice from Warsaw, that the Turks were assembling Forces on the Frontiers of Poland, and that the Czarina had demanded a Passage thro' that Kingdom for a very considerable Body of Troops which she was determin'd to send to the Assistance of the Queen of Hungary, a Measure which she believ'd would give the highest Satisfaction to the Republick; which News had spread the greatest Astonishment thro' the Saxon Court. We have Letters from Italy of a very fresh Date, which have eas'd us of many Fears. The King of Sardinia has certainly refus'd a Passage to 15,000 French Troops, and has declar'd he will never suffer any foreign Power to take possession of Milan. Our Care therefore is confin'd to the Parmezan, where the Queen will have very shortly an Army of 15,000 regular Troops, exclusive of the Croats and other light-arm'd Forces. The Venetians have lately transported several Regiments from Dalmatia, and it is reckon'd that in six Weeks time their Army of Observation will be compleat. General Waldeck who commands in Mantua has taken care to put that Place in an excellent State of Defence, and as he has a Garison of 8,000 Men, we reckon that it will not easily be taken. The Duke of Modena keeps still upon the Reserve, but as yet he has given us no Cause to suspect his having any Intelligence with the Spaniards.

In fine, if our Hopes from England and Holland do not fail us, our Sovereign will certainly be able to look all her Enemies in the Face, since the Forces rais'd in these Provinces will serve to balance the Supplies that the Confederates expect from France, and we the rather flatter ourselves that our ancient Allies will not forsake us, because 'tis certain that the People of England and Holland were never better dispos'd towards the House of Austria than now. The last Accounts we had from the Hague assure us, that the Ministers have from their Pulpits return'd Thanks to God for having put it into the Hearts of their Governors to take such vigorous Measures in this critical Conjunction, when the Safety of the State and the Liberty in Europe are in such imminent Danger. It is also said, that Persons of all Ranks shew the greatest Cheerfulness in regard to the Expences which must attend the great military Preparations throughout the Dominions of the Republick, and have offer'd to contribute freely towards the furnishing whatever Supplies their High Mightinesses shall think proper to demand.

The States of Brabant are shortly to assemble, when we shall know with Certainty what Turn Affairs will take here, his Excellency the Count de Harrach our Governor having receiv'd Instructions from the Queen our Sovereign to lay before them Matters of the highest Importance. On the 5th of this Month an Express pass'd thro' this City from London with Dispatches of the utmost Consequence for Vienna, since which it is reported that a Body of English Troops will shortly be transported hither. I cannot close this Letter without acquainting you with somewhat I have just now learnt from a Gentleman who Yesterday arriv'd from Italy. The true Reason why the Spanish Troops act so slowly in that Country is this; many of their Regiments were in a manner compos'd of Germans who had entered into their Service after the fatal Battle of Bitonto, and these have deserted in such Numbers that the Duke de Montemar is really at a loss how to act, the rather because the Neapolitan Troops have still more of these Men amongst them, which is the Reason that they are kept at the greatest Distance from the Frontiers. Who could have imagin'd that the smallest Advantage would have result'd to the Queen of Hungary from the coming of Spanish Troops into Italy!
